Nazi Air Raiders Make 142nd Attack On British Capital During Day

ARTILLERY DUEL ALONG COAST

One Serious Fire Started In London Financial District Last Night

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Terrific dog fights raged on the southeast English coast this afternoon as British warplanes fought desperately to stop a giant German aerial armada from carrying out a mass attack on London.

As an estimated several hundred German raiding planes sought to blast their way through the coastal defenses, air raid warnings screamed in the British capital three times today.

The last alarm—which sounded shortly after 2:30 p. m. (8:30 a. m. E. S. T.)—was the 142nd of the war.

Few Break Through

Preliminary reports reaching the capital indicated that the Nazi raiders were being frustrated in their attack attempt by British fighters and blazing anti-aircraft guns.

Only a handful of German planes were able to slip through the defenses and streak on into London. Here they were met by waiting British Hurricanes and Spitfires, and roof-top watchers reported that several sky battles were in progress high above the southern suburbs of the city.

The crack of anti-aircraft guns could be heard in the distance.

The Nazi raiders were favored in their attacks by dense cloud banks.

Today's new attacks came in the wake of all-night raid on the capital in which large fires were started in the financial section of the city.

In the woods, the blue jays are now uttering their battle cries. British Retaliatory Steps Are Forecast

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 30—Sharp new British retaliatory measures against the Italo-German-Japanese military agreement were predicted for an early date by well-informed political circles in London today.

Britain is expected to reopen the Burma Road for military supplies to China before October 18. In addition, it was said, the British Dominions will shortly announce diversion to Great Britain of vital war materials previously exported to Japan.

Informed British circles now believe that announcement of a military alliance between Spain and the Axis Powers is an imminent certainty.

When this has been achieved, Britain confidently expects another "final" peace offer from Germany before the winter sets in. Informed circles, however, declare it will make no impression.

Britain, it was said, "has taken into full account recent and expected Axis moves and is adjusting its campaign plans accordingly."

Army authorities have estimated that 700 structures will be required at the Indiantown Gap Reservation, in Lebanon county, for training an expected 20,000 draftees.

"On Friday airplanes of unknown nationality dropped three...."

Editors of the Daily Telegraph added:

"Presumably some part of Greece was bombed."

OIL PATCH AND LIFE RAFT FOUND, PLANE IS MISSING

(International News Service)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Sept. 30—Discovery of a patch of oil and an empty life raft off Gadsden's Point in the bay east of St. Petersburg today was believed to be a clew to the disappearance of a U. S. Coast Guard amphibian plane.

The airship, manned by Lieut. True G. Miller and First Class Seaman Travis B. Redman, was last reported about 6:30 p. m., yesterday. The airplane left the St. Petersburg Coast Guard base on what was to be a short test flight. It was unreported and had failed to return.

The patch of oil in the bay was discovered by immigration patrol officers.

Germany Makes Plans To Evacuate Children From Air-Raid Areas

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, Sept. 30—Germany today set in motion a plan for optional execuation of children from air-raided areas of the Reich.

Announcement of the plan was made after residents of Berlin once more spent nearly two hours in air raid shelters, although no bombs were dropped upon the capital.

The evacuation plan will affect areas in which parents feel the health of children may be harmed.

It was stressed that the plan is in no way compulsory and leaves the decision up to parents alone.

Those who cannot afford to pay for transfer and maintenance of their children in areas not raided by British planes will be given necessary financial assistance by the Nazi relief organization, it was stated.

"No Necessity"

Authorities said the measure in no way implies necessity for any evacuation, especially from Berlin, but is aimed to east the mind of parents regarding the welfare of their children.

Authentic German cirlces declared that rumors of a general evacuation were circulated largely by "well-meaning but over-zealous" air raid precaution workers.

They compared this to a recent incident in which A. R. P. workers ordered everyone to keep their gas-masks handy. Such precautions were not necessary, authoritative quarters said, since there has been no indication anywhere of the intended use of poison gas.

It was expected that Berlin's industrial north, northwest and southeast areas would take the greatest interest in the plan for optional evacuation of children.

These sections of the city not only contain the greatest number of children but also the poorer groups living in the capital.

The offer is effective in Berlin immediately.

LONDON, Sept. 30.—Terrific British air raids against military targets in the Reich and Nazi held coastal territory were revealed by the London air ministry today.

Indicating that British aerial counter-blows have been brought to still higher levels in the past 48 hours, an official announcement this morning said:

"Targets in Germany included marashalling yards, military plants and aluminum works. Our pilots reports of the damage have not yet yet been fully examinted."

Passports Are Being Refused

Men Of Conscription Age Have Hard Time To Leave Country

By JACK VINCENT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—The State Department reportedly is refusing passports to men of conscription age to prevent draft-dodgers from fleeing the country, it was learned today.

This information was gained by International News Service simultaneous with disclosure that President Roosevelt has signed an executive order naming Lt. Col. Lewis B. Hershey temporary director of the national draft board.

President Roosevelt took the step, it was said, in order that registration of the nation's 165,000,000 men of draft age (21-35 inclusive) could proceed without delay on October 16—just 16 days hence.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the state department is refusing to issue passports to men of conscription age unless unusual grounds for leaving the country are presented.

While the department was silent on the so-called "crack down" on potential draft dodgers, it was learned that attempts of a congressman to obtain a passport for a young man of draft age, who has a scholarship in a South American country, met with failure.

The state department, this congressman was told, would not issue travel documents to anyone of conscription age. While there has been a general restriction on passports since the European war started, the tightening-up has not heretofore involved western hemisphere nations.

President Goes Into Maryland

Leaves Washington On White House Yacht For Trip

PLANS TO INSPECT PROVING GROUND

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABERDEEN, Md., Sept. 30.—President Roosevelt was aboard the White House yacht Potomac off the army's bid Aberdeen ordnance proving grounds today, ready for a day-long inspection tour of Maryland defense facilities—a tour which probably will mark his only appearance in the free state during the current political campaign.

Although the chief executive will make no speeches, and will avoid the downtown sections of Baltimore, the course of his inspection trip will take him about 70 miles by motor through one of the most populous portions of Maryland.

On his itinerary were the Aberdeen proving grounds, where the army tests its guns and muntions; the Glenn L. Martin aircraft factory at Middle River, which has just received a $99,614,880 order for bombers—largest single plane order in the nation's history—and Camp Meade, which is being rebuilt into a reception center for 25,000 army recruits at a cost of over $7,000,000.

Today's tour will be the president's sixth inspection swing—all within his self-imposed limit of an overnight journey from Washington. Previously Mr. Roosevelt has visited the Norfolk, Va., area; the New

Both Presidential Candidates To Make Pennsylvania Visit

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 30.—Pennsylvania's fall campaign began to move into high gear today as the pivotal Keystone state prepared to welcome both presidential candidates.

With 36 important electoral votes at stake, both Wendell L. Willkie and President Roosevelt were scheduled to tour the state.

The Republican nominee will make a two-day tour, to be followed later perhaps by a return visit. Willkie will make three major speeches, at Pittsburgh Thursday evening, where he will deliver the major labor address of his campaign, and at Harrisburg and Philadelphia on Friday.

Roosevelt is scheduled to visit Pittsburgh on October 11 to inspect national defense industries. State Democratic leaders are expected to avail themselves of the opportunity to whip up enthusiasm for the party ticket.

Sen. Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Willkie's running mate, will join the Republican nominee for his Pittsburgh address. It will be their first appearance together in this campaign.

The Willkie-McNary party will be met at Youngstown, O., by Gov. Arthur H. James and other party leaders. McNary will introduce Willkie at Pittsburgh, substituting for Governor James in order to avoid a factional fight with Allegheny County Chairman Frank J. Harris. After that, however, Governor James will do the honors. Willkie is also scheduled to make two short addresses at Lancaster and Coatesville from the rear platform of his train.

Willkie's visit to the state capitol will fall on the 34th anniversary of its dedication by President Theodore Roosevelt. He will speak from the front steps. His address in Philadelphia will be in Convention Hall, where he was nominated.

Willkie Heads For Michigan

Has Conference On Train Enroute With Pennsylvania Political Leaders

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN, ENROUTE DETROIT, MICH., Sept. 30—Pennsylvania today caught the train it missed at Philadelphia and by invitation.

While Wendell Willkie headed into Michigan with his presidential campaign, Joseph N. Pew, Jr., political chief of the Keystone state went home from a five hour invitation conference with the candidate to report:

"We covered all Pennsylvania problems. Everything is in fine shape."

That was Pew's report to newspapermen aboard Willkie's train who sat outside the door from New York to Syracuse while the candidate and Pew talked, part of the time in duo, part of the time with John D. M. Hamilton, executive didector of the National Committee, and Jay Cooke, Philadelphia leader, in the session.

Willkie got his nomination without Pew or Pennsylvania. It was part of his "no obligation, no pledge no commitments of any sort" doctrine. He did not see Pew at Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania delegation was caught in the awkward position of passing its vote when the convention snowballed Willkie into the nomination.

With the Pennsylvania situation now in the process of pointing up for the candidates' visit, Willkie gave his attention today to Michigan audiences.

South Bend, Niles, Kalamazoo, Battle Creek, Jackson, Ann Arbor, Wyandotte and Detroit were on the schedule with off the train speeches scheduled for South Bend, Ann Arbor and Detroit and train platform speeches scheduled for the other points.

The Detroit speech is the major speech of the day. Willkie will address the National Federation of Women's Republican clubs and the speech will be broadcast.

Governor General Of Island Says Radio Ultimatum Is Delivered

ISLAND STRATEGIC TO BRITISH ROUTES

By PAUL THIRIET
International News Service Staff Correspondent

VICHY, France, Sept. 30 — Envisaging a new "Dakar incident"—this time in the Indian Ocean—the French government took swift measures today to defend its strategic colony of Madagascar from any possible British assault.

Instructions were sent to Madagascar to resist any British attempt to seize control of the island, situated off the southeast coast of Africa.

Governor General Leon Cayla was ordered to "oppose any political, military or naval menace" after the British issued an alleged radio ultimatum demanding that the colony repudiate the Vichy government of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and join the "free French" forces of Gen. Charles De Gaulle.

Reject Capitulation Order

According to reports reaching Vichy, Cayla rejected the British capitulation order even before receiving the instructions of the Petain cabinet.

The British ultimatum, dispatched less than four days after Great Britain's abandonment of the siege of Dakar, threatened Madagascar with blockade of its commerce and isolation unless it surrendered to British terms.

The 980-mile long island, which has already reaffirm its loyalty to the Petain government, is situated in the Indian Ocean 240 miles off the African coast, and is strategically located astride Britain's important South African trade routes.

BRITISH AIR ATTACKS ARE INCREASED

followed up destructive blows dealt to power stations and anti-aircraft defense in Berlin, the huge Wilhelmshaven naval base, coastal invasion bases and other objectives.

The attack on Wilhelmshaven reputedly the largest naval base in the Reich, was reported to be a severe one. Gigantic fires were started, and heavy explosions rocked the base in the wake of direct bomb hits, returning pilots stated.

Although flying under adverse weather conditions, long-range British bombers successfully slipped through Berlin's anti-aircraft defenses and carried out attacks on electric power stations in the German capital, a military bulletin claimed. The raiding bombers also sought out ground batteries.

Munitions Plant Damaged

Royal Air Force dive-bombers were reported to have "seriously "damaged" a large munitions factory at Hanau near Frankport. Other raiding squadrons visited German airdromes throughout the Reich and German-conquered territory while still others pelted Nazi railway centers.

Over the week end British warplanes continued the relentless pounding of the German continental "invasion bases." Particularly singled out for attack were Le Havre, Boulogne, Dunkerque, Fecamp, Lorient, and Cap Gris Nez.

Berlin Reports

Berline, Sept. 30—Residents of Berlin spent almost two hours in air raid shelters today but no bombs were dropped on the capital.

There was no anti-aircraft fire or aerial activity near the capital and an official announcement said:

"British planes last night flew over western Germany and a few penetrated as far as Central Germany and the vicinity of Berlin, but without reaching the capital."

One British plane was shot down in western Germany before midnight, it was cmlaimed.

INCREASED LIFE SPAN

Since the turn of the century the average life span of the white boy baby has increased 12½ years.

LONDON BATTLES MORE DAYLIGHT AIR RAID ATTACKS

that an artillery duel took place over the Dover Straits this morning between German "Big Berthas" on the French coast and British long-range guns.

The Germans replied to British fire, which was believed to have set fire to the docks at Calais.

Guns on the English southeast coast opened fire before dawn, shelling the French coast, which was clearly visible.

A direct hit was reported scored on a quayside in the Calais Harbor, where a large fire was visible after the shelling ceased.

Later the German guns replied, firing four salvoes at 20-minute intervals, apparently in an effort to silence the British guns.

A south coast English town was twice bombed this morning, first by a lone raider and then by a group of German planes returning from the London area, pursued by British fighters.

About a dozen bombs were dropped but it was stated they caused no military damage or casualties.

Split Into Small Formations

The first of the daylight alarms occurred when a number of German planes crossed the southeast English coast and then split into small formations as they shot inland.

All were driven off and there was no bombing or anti-aircraft fire in London, but both bombs and ground barrages were reported along the south coast.

London also remained calm during the second alarm which was of short duration and ended without any activity over the central part of the capital.

During this alarm a force of 50 Nazi bombers, escorted by fighters, crossed the English Channel and swung toward London.

Several other similar waves of German planes were reported along the southeast coast but it was claimed that all were engaged by British fighters and withdrew after suffering losses.

During the night raid a brand new type of ground barrage was hurled up at the Nazi raiders and for the most part kept them further off the central areas of the city than on any previous night.

London rocked to the harsher crashes of the new weapons. One observer reported the first plane which tried to break through the new barrage droned in confidently but limped off with one engine out of order and subsequently crashed.

Heavily Raided

The "home counties" surrounding London and districts adjoining the Mersey river were heavily raided by German planes which continued the raid throughout the night. It was London's 139th air raid alarm since the war began.

Simultaneously it was revealed that nine British Hurricane fighting planes at dusk yesterday saved Liverpool from what might have been a serious bombing.

The Hurricanes caught nine German Heinkel bombers over the Irish Channel and routed them, it was claimed, shooting down two.

More Trips Planned

More of these quick trips are in the making for the final campaign month of October. Next week probably will find Mr. Roosevelt in Ohio —at Wright field in Dayton, and possibly in Cincinnati. Also, the chief executive expects to visit the Pittsburgh area, and the week of Sept. 20 probably will find him in New York City making the postponed dedication of the $80,000,000 Brooklyn-Battery vehicular tunnel.

Col. John B. Rose, commander of the Aberdeen proving grounds, and a group of state officials including Governor Herbert R. O'Conor, Secretary of State Francis Petrott and Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckford, Maryland adjutant general, were waiting to greet Mr. Roosevelt when he came ashore from his yacht. Also present were the three congressmen through whose districts the president will pass today—D'Alesandro, Sasscer and Kennedy.

DRAFTEES MUST FURNISH FACTS

Must Answer Questions Of Registrars, Governor James Emphasizes Today

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 30.—Men between 21 and 36 who are eligible for compulsory military training were admonished by Gov. Arthur H. James today that refusal to furnish information to draft registrars will bring drastic punishment.

Registrants who refuse to answer questions at draft centers October 16 are liable to five years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine, the governor warned.

"Recalcitrants will be taken care of," he said.

Governor James conferred with Dr. William Mather Lewis, Lafayette College president, shortly after the latter assumed his duties as state draft director, and with Adjutant General Edward Martin and Deputy Adjutant General Benjamin F. Evans, who will serve as Dr. Lewis' assistant.

In his instructions to draft officials, the governor said:

"If any registrant is refractory, witnesses should be called and after the penalty has been explained to him in the presence and hearing of witnesses, full opportunity should be given to him to reconsider his action and answer the questions.

"If he is still refractory, the name of the registrant shall be turned over to the proper authorities for action."

Although he found the draft regulations "wordy but simple" Dr. Lewis said he believes that the draft machinery is much simpler than that used in 1917. He asked for cooperation of the press in making October 16 "a day of great patriotic meaning throughout the state."

General Martin declared it was unlikely that inspectors would be appointed to serve local draft boards in a supervisory capacity. The report that a physician must be a member of each local board was termed incorrect, although a physician can be a member.

National Dog Week Gains Recognition

"National Dog Week" observed throughout the country, and founded in 1928 through the efforts of Captain Will Judy, widely recognized as the country's outstanding dog authority, of which he is still general chairman, has just been concluded, and it is interesting to note, the attention this period is given by individual dog lovers, humane societies, kennel clubs, Boy and girls Scouts and other groups all over the country. This has been given special attention in New Castle and vicinity.

It is the motif that during National Dog Week, the canine pets are to receive special care. Through this organization, good homes have been secured for pets; stray dogs are eliminated from the streets and dog owners have been impressed with their obligations to their dogs and the public. The dog is the most devoted faithful companion, and is a useful servant of mankind.

For this purpose, the Association has organized a "Man's Best Friend Club" which is open to any individual or organization. by making a voluntary contribution in any amount, to be used for the direct promotion of the annual National Dog Week and the publicizing of its objectives.

Veterinarians in all sections of the country are coming forth with high praise for the National Dog Week movement, according to the National Dog Week Association, at Chicago, Ill.

addresses in Pennsylvania and a number of short addresses enroute across the state. Thursday night October 3, his first major address will be made in Pittsburgh. The other addresses include Harrisburg, Lancaster and Philadelphia. He will make several platform appearances however.

This will be the first time in many years that a presidential candidate on the Republican ticket has spoken in New Castle, save for the address of Alfred M. Landon four years ago. His reason for being here was the fact that he made his acceptance speech in West Middlesex and New Castle was the headquarters of the national committee for the acceptance ceremonies.

The address of Mr. Willkie is expected to be about ten minutes long. He will make a brief address in Youngstown enroute to New Castle from Cleveland and at Youngstown the party of Republican leaders mentioned above will board the train.

Speaks To Huge Crowds

In his speaking tour thus far Mr. Willkie has been met by tremendous crowds and wild enthusiasm. South, far west, middle west and east have told the same story, thousands around the train or at the meetings at which he has appeared. The Pennsylvania station area will undoubtedly be jammed with people Thursday morning.

Arrangements are also being made here to send a special train into Pittsburgh, Thursday afternoon to attend the Willkie mass meeting in Forbes Field Thursday night. About 250 are expected to ride the special train. In addition many others will drive in to Pittsburgh.

Australia May Receive Visit Of American Warships

Good-Will Mission Is Hinted In Reports In Washington Circles

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The United States shortly may dispatch a small group of warships to Australia and New Zealand on a "good will" mission it was reported today in diplomatic quarters.

While neither the navy nor the state department would comment on these reports, it was learned reliably that such a naval mission has been discussed by administration officials.

Secretary Hull asked at his press conference if the government was planning such a step said that he had no tangible information on this subject, but observers considered it significant that he did not deny the report.

In view of the United States—Japanese tension over far eastern developments the visit of a small number of American warships to Australia and New Zealand even for a "good will" cruise takes on considerable significance.

Recent state department conversations between American, British and Australia diplomatic representatives have touched on closer Anglo-American collaboration in the Far East to check threatened Japanese expansion southward to the Dutch East Indies and other territories.

AROUND CITY HALL

There are two pieces of fire equipment now stored in the city motor mechanic's shop. One is from No. 3 and the other from No. 4 house. The piece from No. 3 is considered obsolete and to repair it would require special tires. It would cost more to repair it than what it would be worth, reports assert.

The other piece was taken out of No. 4 and sent to the shop when the new American La France apparatus was purchased. What is to be done with it has not been decided, according to reports. However, according to city hall reports, the city fathers are discussing a proposal to purchase a new piece of fire-fighting equipment.

Although the canning season is here, Superintendent of Garbage Charles Colnot and his force of garbage department employes are not experiencing any great difficulty keeping garbage cans emptied. Very few complaints are received, according to reports. The incinerator, which is located at the end of Sampson street, is also in good condition. The buildings and grounds are spic and span.

City Detective John Young today came back to day turn and City Detective John G. Moore went on the 4 p. m.-midnight turn. City Detective D. J. Thomas will work two more weeks day turn then relieve Moore on night turn.

FAITH

TAXES

We think it is high time that something be done in regard to the taxes in New Castle. People are moving to the country district and even to other states, in order to escape high taxes. It is going to ruin the sale of properties, which can be proven by some sales made in New Castle lately. When property will sell for one-third of what it is assessed, there is something the matter.

There are a few left, whose properties have not been sold for taxes, but when they are, where will the taxes come from to pay the bills. There is no chance in the world of getting manufacturing plants in a city with high taxes.

This is a serious matter. We must look it square in the face and do something before it is too late.

Hogue Homestead Scene Of Wedding; 55th Anniversary

A wedding in every girl's life, is a "dream come true" and when the bride is so fortunate as to be able to choose the fifty-fifth wedding anniversary of her grandparents for her marriage, it gives a double significance that enfolds touching memories, for years to come.

Sunday afternoon, September 29, such an event was celebrated, when Miss Mary Emma Bair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bair of Wayne avenue, Ellwood City, became the bride of Donald Streckeisen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Streckeisen, of Wurtemburg, the ceremony taking place in the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hogue of Ellwood City, R. D. 1, who received members of the immediate family and close relatives, for a "wedding and anniversary reception" combined, the foursome sharing honors alike.

Adding further to the memorable event, is the fact that the bride, Mary Emma, is the namesake of both her grandmothers.

The vows were exchanged in the living room of the Hogue homestead, before an improvised altar, an embankment of flowers being attractively arranged, providing a perfect setting, the all white theme being featured. Rev. T. H. Carson, pastor of the Ellwood City Methodist church, officiated at 2:45 o'clock, using the single ring service.

For her marriage, the bride chose a street length dress of cadet blue, with black accessories, complimented with a shoulder bouquet of roses, white baby mums and daisies. Attending her sister as maid of honor, Miss Chesta Bair, wore a moss green dress, street length, and accompaniments in black. Her shoulder corsage was a cluster of yellow roses.

Robert Hogue, cousin of the bride, and an Ellwoodian, served as best man.

A congratulatory period followed, and immediately afterwards, a wedding dinner was served at the Hogue residence, places marking for sixty-five. At the "table of honor" which was cleverly appointed in white, the traditional tiered cake with miniatures of a bride and groom gracing the top, formed the centerpiece. Lighted white tapers and flowers at either side, completed the setting, and favors marked for the bride and groom, and their attendants, the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hogue and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Bair, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bair, and the Rev. and Mrs. Carson. Smaller tables placed about the adjoining rooms, accommodated the remaining guests.

The couple dispensed with a wedding trip for the present, and have taken up residence in their newly furnished apartment, at the home of the bride's parents, at 516 Wayne avenue, Ellwood City.

During the afternoon reception, Mr. and Mrs. Hogue enjoyed reminiscing of days gone by and told of happy incidents they cherish. They have spent their entire married lives on the farm they now occupy, which is the birth place of Mr. Hogue. He is in his 81st year, and is one of Lawrence County's best and most successful farmers. Mrs. Hogue is 73, and was Mary Booher, prior to her marriage fifty-five years ago. Both have a host of friends, which they have made throughout the entire community. They seemingly are in good health, and are active members of the Harmony Baptist church. Mrs. Abe Kildoo of this city, is the only living sister of Mrs. Hogue. M. C. Hogue, Ellwood, is Mr. Hogue's only living brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Hogue, are the parents of ten children, eight of whom are living. They are as follows: Mrs. Agnes McHattie of Ashland avenue, New Castle; William Hogue, Ellwood, R. D. 1; Mrs. Dora Bair, Norman Hogue, Walter Hogue all of Ellwood City; James Hogue, Castlewood; Chester Hogue, Ellwood, R. D. 1; Mrs. Lydia Kennedy, Castlewood. Deceased are, Mrs. Mae Watters, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Clara Houk, Energy. They have three great-grandchildren, Doris Jane Meister, aged 6, Chestnut street, New Castle; Barbara Ann Burns, age 4, Corsopolis; Darlene June Black, age two and one-half months, Columbus, O., also, they have 32 grandchildren.

"Our Wedding Day" for the honored couples, Mr. and Mrs. Streckeisen and Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hogue, will always stand out as a most happy and memorable occasion.

WAR AND MURDER

WAR hasn't changed a great deal with the passing of the centuries and the progress of civilization. There are, of course, new methods, new tactics and new instruments of destruction. These last are due in large measure to scientific progress, to the men of genius who have applied their particular talent to the arts of material and human destruction.

But, fundamentally, war is about the same insofar as its purposes and the means to their attainment are concerned. It is designed in order that a megolamaniac may achieve his ambitions though the streets and the rivers run red with blood and cities and towns are brought down in ruins.

Centuries ago, the barbarian hordes of Huns and Vandals, Goths and Visigoths swept down upon Europe, putting men, women and children to the sword, burning crops and homes, leaving behind them a land so blighted that hardly a living thing remained. The same general purposes are in the minds of the dictators today as they rain death indiscriminately upon cities, killing soldiers at their posts, women in the market places, the rich in their palaces and the poor in the slums.

"This isn't war," cried the distraught father of two children who were among the 275 persons lost when a British ship carrying evacuees to Canada went down six hundred miles off the English coast, the victim of a Nazi torpedo. "It is sheer, cold-blooded murder." There is very little real difference between the two.

FOREIGN CORRESPONDENTS

Soldiers are always in line for citations for bravery. Because of the catastrophic nature of today's bomb warfare, Britain has also established medals for civilians who have demonstrated special courage in air raids. Now it's about time to give recognition to those newspaper correspondents who stick to their posts though the heavens fall—which they just about do.

During the last few years journalists have followed the course of war from one stricken front to another. From bombed cities they have sent out their daily grist of news to the Associated Press, the United Press, International News Service, and other news-gathering agencies.

It has been no picnic. Censorship hides much of what goes on, but from dispatches from London it is evident that the task of maintaining press communications with the United States is not only difficult but extremely hazardous. Reporters wear no magic talismans, nor do they have charmed lives. The very nature of their duty exposes them to greater risks than the average government official or civilian in London.

In fact, headquarters have been bombed and there is reason to believe that the staff does not know from day to day where its work will be conducted. Britain is not the native country of these men, although they probably sympathize with its cause. It is just a job the correspondents are doing, and one not too highly paid at that. About the greatest guerdon they can win is a by-line for their stories.

The "white papers" will give future historians much of the inside of the war, but it is the reporters who furnish the day by day accounts of actual events. In the kind of warfare now being waged, they stake their very lives on the chance of getting the day's news. If a soldier earns a distinguished service cross, there should be an equivalent citation for those who perform the essential task of keeping the rest of the world informed of what is happening in the war zone.

REAPPORTIONMENT IN HOUSE

Often overlooked is the fact that taking of the census has one, and only one, primary purpose. That is to enable Congress to reapportion the House of Representatives every ten years in accordance with changes in population. Although requiring a census every ten years, the Constitution does not directly declare that a reapportionment must be made each time, although the intent is plain.

This loophole was taken advantage of in 1920 to make no changes. The omission was defended on the ground that the census was unfair to the agricultural states because not enough time had elapsed since the World War for population to become stabilized as between rural and urban areas. Although apportionment would have produced more wets than drys, and the drys were then in the majority in Congress.

In that year the House membership had grown to 435, which Congress decided was enough in making the last apportionment in 1932, using the so-called major fractions method. As applied to a House of 435, each state was entitled to as many representatives as the whole number of times that 279,712 was contained in the state's total population, plus an additional representative if the fractional remainder was greater than one-half.

Applied to the 1940 preliminary returns that method, which will be continued, will bring few changes in comparison with 1930. This is largely because the 1930 apportionment was based on the shifts and increases of a twenty, instead of a ten, year period. With the unit figure of 279,712 raised in ratio to the population gain— which will bring it to approximately 300,000—ten or twelve states stand to lose one representative each, with a corresponding reduction, of course, in the Presidential elector total. While Florida, which shows the largest percentage increase in population, will have six instead of five Congressmen, California will jump from twenty to twenty-three.

Along with reapportionment by Congress, various states will attempt to reform the lines of Congressional districts to correct inequalities whereby one representative represents 100,000 people and another perhaps 600,000. These inequalities, which grow more glaring with each census, are largely the product of gerrymander tactics. The result invariably has been over-representation for rural areas, and in some instances the majority of a state's delegation in the House has been of the party in the minority in the state.

Henry Wallace is taking cracks at American "high finance," which is surprising when it is pointed out that the highest finance is in Washington.

Hitler has told the Germans to "go forth erect and proud." They cannot follow his injunction, however, when ducking into those air raid shelters.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

HELP THE BABY'S APPETITE

Most eating problems begin because the mother will push food into a baby. It might be desirable to do a bit of "pushing" of a new food, if only a small morsel of the food (no bigger than a soup bean) is gently put into the unwilling mouth. Even then, if there is strong resistance it were better to give up and try it later.

If the baby constantly closes the mouth against a certain kind of food, turns the head, pushes the spoon away showing annoyance, it is the time to end the meal. Don't substitute another food. Give the child lots of water and fruit juice but no milk, except at night perhaps, until a small portion of the offered food is wanted. Not many mothers will accept this advice since they "can't bear to see the baby go hungry", and they are sure he needs the food, the more so as they check on the child's weight. They are thinking of immediate intake of nourishment, not on the kind of appetite which, with persistence, can be cultivated and which, after a week or so, will guarantee more weight.

Thein the food which the baby enjoys for some days or for the first few spoonfuls will be forced into the child, or slipped in while he is not watching, long after he has indicated he wants no more of it. As a result this food once liked becomes hatead.

Popular Potato

Of all the food problems I have heard or read about, potato, so far as I can recall, has never been named as a disliked food. Why?

Because it is not one that the mother supposes the baby needs so much as he needs cereals and leafy vegetables; besides, he can eat baked potato with his bare hands or a spoon very early. Mothers have no emotions over potatoes. If the mother urged the little child to eat other foods no more than she urges him to eat potatoes there would be no eating problems.

Of a nine-months-old baby, a mother writes:

"She pushes every kind of food offered her away at first and after I managed to give her a taste of it and if she likes it, she'll open her mouth wide. But cereals and many vegetables she knocks out of the spoon. I manage to slip it in sometimes when she's looking elsewhere"—mean trick, it seems to me.

"Should I give her a spoon and let her try to feed herself regardless of the mess she makes?"

Fingers Before Forks

Yes, indeed, never mind the mess. But until she is almost a year old she may have a hard time operating a spoon even with mashed foods. She can, no doubt, even now eat such with her bare hands and there's no better way to cultivate a good appetite in her.

I go much farther into the early stages of cultivating the baby's appetite and discuss at length eating problems of various sorts and at different age levels in a pamphlet entitled "Helping Child Enjoy Food". This is one of 15 pamphlets of mine on everyday problems of bringing up the baby and small child, being simple presentations of my university lectures to pre-school parents. A folder describing these pamphlets and showing how they may be procured may be had by writing me at 235 E. 45th St., New York City, N. Y., enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. In like manner you may receive a chart to help you find out roughly how smart your baby is. Indicate his age.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

JUST SERVANTS

Broadcasting to all Germany the decision of Hitler to annex German-occupied Poland, the Nazi spokesman said last week: "The Pole is the servant of the German and will remain so forever." The statement emphasized the broadcaster's assurance to young Germans that they could settle in Poland without fear of Polish competition for land or business.

There is sober import in such an official declaration of Nazi policy toward defeated peoples. Hitler invaded Austria and Czecho-Slovakia on pretense that he was upholding the principle of self-determination of small peoples and minorities—and on the same ground he demanded Danzig from the Poles. The German people may have supported Hitler on those grounds then. Today the pretense is gone. A conquered people is badly termed "a servant people." The German policy of conquering in order to enslave is frankly pronounced. That means that a Germany united behind Hitler from now on is frankly united for the purpose of robbing and subjugating other peoples.

Such unity, for such a purpose, may prove black for the German people, if they lose this war. Once they escaped retribution by repudiating their leaders and charging them with having deceived and misled the people. That excuse has vanished wholly in this war.

Silence reigned for some minutes and then he heard another regiment advancing. "Halt! Who goes there?"

Talk About Bigness! It makes us seem small when we get it into our heads that Canada is larger than the United States by 250,000 square miles; contains one-third of the area of the British Empire; is as large as 30 United Kingdoms, 18 Germanys, 33 Italys; is larger than Australasia and twice the size of British India; has a boundary line of 3,000 miles between it and the United States; its seacoast equals half the earth's circumference; is 3,500 miles wide and 1,400 miles from north to south. Do you wonder the Canadians feel proud?

THE HOLES WILL STAY

"Have you heard any good news from your husband 'over there' lately?" sked a friend.

"I have heard from him," answered the wife. "He sent me a couple of needles in his last letter and asked if I would thread them and send them back right away by mail. He wants to do some mending on his clothes."

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

"I note an increase of profanity among young children," complains a letter just received. "I wish you would write a protest against it."

The parents, not the children, are to blame for this condition. Since the days when I was under parental discipline, I have noted a growing decrease of restraint among fathers and mothers while in the hearing of their youngsters. They do not seem to realize that young children are little parrots who repeat what they hear their elders say. Especially when a parent within their hearing violates one of the rules laid down for their discipline, children let go of their inhibitions and feel perfectly justified in imitating the parental infraction.

Readers' Questions Answered

Question: Will you please outline the details of the processional (if any) at a home wedding.—F. K.

Answer: When all is in readiness for the ceremony, one of the ushers (if there are ushers) should escort the bride's mother to her place in the front line of the guests, at the left, where the other members of the bride's family should join her. Another usher should take the bridegroom's mother to a corresponding place on the right, where she should be joined by her husband and the rest of the groom's relatives. The clergyman, the bridegroom and the best man then enter together from a door, preferably, near the end of the room wherein the ceremony will take place. The bridegroom and the best man should wait at the improvised altar for the bride to come in. The ushers go upstairs where the bridal party waits to start the processional, which forms in the upstairs hall.

At the first sound of the wedding march, the ushers, walking two by two, come down the stairs; next, come the bridesmaids (two by two); then the maid-of-honor (alone); last, the bride on the right arm of her father.

Typists' Fingers are the Most Amazing travelers in creation, and are capable of going tremendous distances without the fatigue that would come to the feet and legs in performing a similar journey. In ordinary typewriting the hand may travel, according to an expert, 10,000 miles a year and not indicate any impairment in efficiency. This refers, of course, to the average typist in an office.

A young woman—unmarried—goes to softball games to watch a certain young man play. To do something worth while, she takes along a bundle of diapers to be hemmed. Don't get excited or don't be lost; this girl is doing things for the Red Cross!

Awful climate: One in which people work hard and make enough money to retire at seventy and move to an ideal climate where people die young.

It's a poor war that does not benefit someone. The British blockade has cut off the supply of red squill, a deadly rat poison, and substitutes are now being sought.

State Controller Harry B. Riley, of California refused to pay for a $155 gold plated placque for the desk of the governor, but he had to give in in the end, because the desk had been built at San Quentin prison, and the law enabled the prison to manufacture for resale to other departments. So, it turns out there is not honor among theives after all.

I just read in the paper about a man who was doing an eight-year stretch in a New York prison, and while he was away his wife took hold of the little business he left behind and ran it up to near a million dollars. Which shows what a woman can do if she doesn't have to sit around and worry about when her husband will come home.—Emily

British-U. S. Union Is Irksome
Lord Lothian Does Not Like Idea
Canadians Are Also Much Perturbed

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. LORD LOTHIAN, John Bull's ambassador in Washington, is reported as mad as a hornet over the recent suggestion in the London parliament that plans are afoot for some sort of a union between Britain and the United States. His lordship isn't saying anything. He knows that, if he did express himself above a whisper, he simply would keep the discussion agoing, and he wants, more than anything else, to let it peter out as speedily as possible.

There are English and Canadian newspapermen in this country, however, who are cabling and telegraphing home plenty of comment relative to the damage to British imperial interests in the U. S. A. that they sense as a result of such publicity. I've seen several of their dispatches. Lord Lothian, too, may have made confidential representations to his government.

I don't mean to imply that either Lord Lothian or the Anglo-Canadian correspondents would be hostile, in a pinch, to any kind of a tie-up between their empire and Uncle Samuel, but they fully appreciate that the chances of it are strongly prejudiced adversely by premature advertising. Of course, they do. They draw their conclusion from American press editorials and from what they hear on Capitol Hill, where they're very vigilant listeners-in, believe me.

Canadians Badly Upset

The Canadians are more perturbed than the overseas English—partly because they understand us better; partly because they have that Canadian-Yankee mutually defensive pact just being concluded, and it makes 'em shudder to think of it as being crabbed at the last minute.

Right in the midst of the negotiations along came Sir George Paish, the eminent English economist, whom Senator Burton K. Wheeler quoted (correctly or otherwise) to the effect that he was here to get us into the European war. That raised hades, but Lord Lothian managed to get Sir George hushed up somehow.

Our swap of 50 destroyers for military bases on British islands off our Atlantic and Caribbean coasts followed. It was a trade which American public opinion doubtless generally approved in principle, but there was considerable criticism of the fashion in which President Roosevelt put it through, without congressional indorsement. Some fault is found even with our pact with Canada, on the ground that congress hasn't had enough to say about it.

All in all, well informed British-

WIDOWER

A tight-rope walker has a pole to keep his balance true,
But a widower unaided walks, always in public view,
And let him smile on maid and dame whene'er he goes about,
The busy tongues will have him wed before the year is out.

The widower is closely watched; fair game for one and all,
The widow sets a cap for him, inviting him to call,
The spinster looks on him in hope, and every friend he knows
Has some one of the fairer sex to whom he might propose.

Now should the widower be polite and smile on Jane or May,
"He's looking for another wife!" the gossips rush to say.
But should he show indifference to women fair or plain,
They wonder just how long 'twill be until he weds again.

Your widower is public prey. So closely watched is he
'Tis dangerous for him to smile on any woman free.
And when invited out to dine to cheer his lonely life
They always seat him by the "gal" who'd make the perfect wife.

Third-Term Fakery

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30. IN this effort to smash the American anti-third-term tradition there are two outstanding pieces of fakery. One, of course, is the pretense that Mr. Roosevelt was "drafted" for his third nomination. The other is the President's pose that he personally is taking no active part in his own campaign.

THE plain fact about these is that Mr. Roosevelt "drafted" himself, and is the managing director of his own campaign, not only mapping out general strategy but devoting himself to various details and conferring with State politicians about their "local situation." The White House is his real political headquarters. These are crude fakes, so transparent that they ought not to deceive anyone. Yet they are basic in the third-term thesis.

BUT, in addition, there are a number of smaller fakes, which combine to make this third Roosevelt campaign one of the most dishonest ever heard of. Literally, it reeks with false pretense. For example, there is the story spread by Administration sources that there no longer is such a thing as a Roosevelt Brain Trust; that Mr. Thomas Corcoran and Mr. Benjamin Cohen have practically been banished from the White House; that they are no longer "close" to the President; that Mr. Roosevelt is a "changed" man, whose advisers are of a more mature and conservative type.

THE New Deal publicity machine succeeded in getting stories more or less along these lines into most of the papers of the country. A good many people took them seriously. It now seems established, however, that this was just another clever little piece of third-term fakery. The Brain Trust and the Corcoran-Cohen combination were obvious campaign targets for the opposition. The Messrs. Corcoran and Cohen had become political liabilities in 1940 just as Dr. Rexford Tugwell had in 1936.

CLEARLY, it was good policy to remove them as targets during the campaign. It would leave the enemy less to shoot at, obviate one source of rather widespread irritation. Hence, promulgation of the idea that the Brain Trust had been abolished, the Messrs. Corcoran and Cohen relegated to the rear and the President "changed" in his outlook. There are those who believed at the time that this interesting thought had been conceived and planted by the Corcoran-Cohen itself. It seems likely. At any rate, it is unadulterated bunk.

THERE has been no change in the relations between Mr. Roosevelt and the Corcoran-Cohen team. They are as close as ever. So, far from going out of existence, all that has happened to the Brain Trust is that it has been expanded to take in a few more literary left-wingers like Mr. Lowell Mellet and Mr. Laughlin B. Currie. It functions as before and Mr. Roosevelt is not one whit more conservative than he has been. His advisers are the same. So is his disposition. The effort to convey the other impression is simply another little piece of calculated campaign deceit.

AS for Mr. Corcoran, that the President's reliance upon his political sagacity remains unbroken is shown by the fact that, at Mr. Roosevelt's request, he will be at New York headquarters during the the rest of the campaign. In order to avoid conflict with the Hatch Act, Mr. Corcoran has resigned as counsel of the RFC, which is his pay-roll job, but all that means is that he may relinquish one month's salary. Ostensibly, he is to help organize the "independents" for the third term.

ACTUALLY, he will be Mr. Roosevelt's personal political representative, with whom he is in close and constant telephonic communication. Mr. Corcoran is a likable and shrewd fellow. He possesses the President's complete confidence and unquestionably has been of great service to him. However, in the field of practical political manipulation his record has not been as successful as in others. It was, for example, Mr. Corcoran who advised and managed the great 1938 "purge" of Democratic Senators. And it was Mr. Corcoran who managed the boom of Attorney General Jackson for Governor of New York. And it was Mr. Corcoran who, as much as anyone, widened the breach between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley. None of these things hurt him with the President, who still regards "Tommy the Cork" as a very smart and smooth political manipulator. That is why he has put him in New York for the next five weeks.

Cadillac For '41 Now On View Here

Rich in appointments and still "the standard of the world," the beautiful 1941 Cadillac—with the sensational "Cadillac Sixty-One"—a newcomer to its field—went on display today at Lawrence Auto Sales Co., South Mercer and South streets.

For 39 years, Cadillac's manufacturing policy has remained one of the few certain things in an uncertain world. This year Cadillac cars know no compromise with quality, as none ever have before. And the coachcraft by Fleetwood has lived up to its dedication to the "pursuit of perfection".

The Cadillac Sixty-One is the lowest-priced Cadillac ever presented, yet it offers a full measure of the luxury, comfort and performance which distinguish the Cadillac cars. The Cadillac Sixty-Two is the 1941 version of the Cadillac which started the new trend in body design visible in so many new cars.

Words just can't describe the new Cadillac. You have to see it!

Epworth Church Has Festival Programs

Epworth Church Beautifully Decorated For Harvest Festival Celebration

Splendid congregations and a constant stream of visitors throughout the day marked the Harvest Festival celebration at Epworth church on Sunday. Enthusiastic appreciation was expressed by everyone over the decorative scheme carried out with excellent taste, suggestive of the beauty of the world and the bounty of God.

Superimposed upon the pulpit front was a beautiful sheaf of bearded wheat, and under this was the Holy Bible, suggestive of the Bread of Life. On the altar table, covered with a linen cloth of snowy whiteness, were two huge loaves of bread together with a choice display of vegetables, fruits and flowers. Cascading down from the choir loft was a veritable Niagara of the most colorful fall flowers and foliage together with a horn of plenty which tumbled in extravagant prodigality a bounteousness made up of everything imaginable, connected with the fruitage of the year, down over the altar steps.

The ten windows of the nave of the church were banked with floral baskets, canned fruit, gourds, and foliage and in their uniformity and diversity made an impressive appeal.

The church choir, under the direction of Mrs. Anna Pyle, presented most inspiring programs of music throughout the day. The evening service, which was almost entirely musical, brought things to a superb climax.

The unqualified success attending this affair makes certain that this Festival of Harvest will become an annual event on the Epworth church program.

Asserts Axis To Negotiate With Russia And Spain

Germany And Italy To Seek To Extend Agreement For "New Order"

By PERCY WINNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, Sept. 30.—Unless Great Britain capitulates speedily, Germany and Italy plan military alliances with Soviet Russia and Spain in pursuance of a grandiose scheme for establishment of a "new order" throughout Europe, Asia and Africa, this correspondent was informed today.

A highly-placed neutral diplomatic source described the next projected steps in axis diplomacy as Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano returned to Rome from Berlin and preparations were made to receive Ramon Serrano Suner, Spanish minister of the interior, on his arrival here tomorrow.

(Editor's note: Official circles in Berlin would not deny rumors that Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop plans to fly to Moscow shortly for a conference with Premier and Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov of the Soviet Union. German quarters said it would be the "greatest political triumph" if Russia joined the tripartite Italo-German-Japanese military pact.)

What's What At A Glance

ers could see that they'd got to be careful—not indiscreetly talkative.

And then, up pops the controversy in the house of commons as to the possibility of an Anglo-American union.

Directly on the heels of it the report gained currency that Britain and Uncle Sam may arrange for an American naval base at Britain's Singapore—which naturally would step heavily on Japan's toes.

It's a sequence of reports and rumors that the British don't like to have current on our side of the Atlantic. Fulfillment of 'em isn't what they object to. What they're afraid of is that plans will be queered by overly early ventilation.

British-American Union

Exactly what a British-American union would resemble we don't know yet.

We do know, though, what kind of a union the British offered to France before the French capitulated to Germany.

The scheme called for joint Franco-British citizenship, a joint parliament and a pooling of Franco-British economic resources, but separate internal administrations.

Would we like this scheme? Which would be which? Our congress or Britain's parliament?

The thing isn't precisely proposed. Richard Stokes, a Labor member, only asked, in the house of commons, if it's under consideration. Clement Atlee, a high cabinet official in the Church administration, replied that it won't be pushed, anyway, without an ample opportunity for parliamentary debate. He didn't mention that congress may desire to debate it likewise.

Prior to this chat, Premier Churchill's spokesmen several times denied that the union idea is simmering, but Lord Privy Seal Atlee didn't do any denying. All he said was that it won't be jammed through without due parliamentary consideration.

Widespread American publication of the story makes Lord Lothian diplomatically fairly rabid.

France blew up too soon for the union proposition to take on that side of the English channel.

Riot Develops In Pittsburgh Strike

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—Wielding knives, steel bars, clubs and blackjacks freely, strikers, nonstrikers and police engaged in a general free-for-all today in front of the struck Hubbard & Company plant in Lawrenceville as 90 nonunion men tried to rush their way through the main gates.

About 40 persons were arrested, and many injuries, mostly cuts and bruises, were reported. About 40 men managed to run the gauntlet and enter the plant, closed a week ago during a wage dispute with a unit of the steel workers organizing committee.

A general riot call, sent in a short time before the battle broke out, brought 45 policemen, four patrol wagons and an ambulance to the scene.

The riot started when the nonstrikers, apparently thinking the police reinforcements were for their protection, rushed the plant's gates. They got as far as the street when the strikers ganged up on them and blocked the way, without waiting for the police to take action. Several women sympathizers participated in the scrap.

Woman's Club Resume Of Program For Calendar Year

Seeking an escape from the tense world situation, from disturbing war news and involved political issues, framers of the program in the Woman's club headed by Mrs. Earl Ruby, recognized the need for entertainment as well as a desire for information.

The 46th club season will be launched on October 7 with a luncheon in the First U. P. church. Mrs. James R. Green, talented young member of the New Castle little theater movement, will review a Broadway play hit, Clarence Day's "Life with Father".

Cultural and educational trends will be ably presented by a group of guest speakers during the season. Dr. Clarence Ward, formerly professor of history and appreciation of art, Princeton university, director of the art museum, Oberlin college, will describe the charm of French cathedrals. Going from the aesthetic to the practical, "Art in Business" will be the discussion of Grant Waddle, himself an artist and business man.

"Magazine and Book Publishing for the Masses" is becoming increasingly the engaging wonderment of the reading public. Harold Brainerd Hersey, who has edited 80 of these publications, will discuss the subject as a "pulpwood" editor. To listen to the reader of original poetry is always a delight. Eleanor Graham, Westminster college, 1930, graduate study at North Western and Columbia, will interpret "Poetry for Enjoyment".

Not depending entirely upon imported talent, the department of fine arts through its division of art, music and drama, will arrange the Christmas and closing programs. Rabbi George Lieberman, Wheeling, popular book reviewer and interpreter of the present scene, will come to the club in the spring in a timely book review. "Fashions in Morals", by the incomparable Cornelia Stratten Parker, mother traveler and writer, affords the members a rare opportunity to meet one who has made for herself a rich, stimulating and adventuresome life.

Travel and international relations have their place in a balanced program. S. Miles Bouton, editor of the Jamestown (N. Y.) Post, was for 25 years news and editorial writer for American newspapers in Germany. His address will carry the views of a close observer of the Nazi scene. The Far East with Indo China and Burma in the present limelight, holds the attention of the nation. Nicol Smith will bring his unusual and absorbing lecture and thrilling motion picture of the Burma road. As an authority on Latin-American music and Latin-American relations, Mme. Irma Labastille brings to the club also her experiences as journalist and wife of a South American businessman. She has penetrated the regions of the interior for authentic ancient melodies and cultures. Mrs. John Elliot is president of The Woman's club.

STEER BESTS COPS BUT SUCCUMBS TO COWBOYS' LARIATS

(International News Service)

DENVER—A joust between a prize Brahma steer and a city policeman ended here recently with the steer being captured unharmed but not until the officer spent a few panicky moments retreating from the huge animal and appealing for help.

Residents noticed the steer and called police headquarters. Patrolman Andrew Haze was ordered to capture the escaped animal.

Boldly walking up to the fierce-looking steer, Haze sought to coral it but the steer charged at Haze who quickly retreated to the safety of his radio car and put in a call for reinforcements which quickly came.

The steer, meanwhile, decided to go swimming in a nearby lake.

A speedboat was commandered but all efforts to capture the steer were in vain. The baffled police radioed for more help.

More cops and some cowboys arrived and while the huge beast stood doggedly surveying the situation, lariats swung from all directions and the animal was bagged.

Anniversary Is Observed

Polish-American Alliance Has Special Program On Sunday

Marking thirty years of service to the Polish-American people of New Castle, an anniversary was held on Sunday afternoon and evening by Group 1237, of the Polish National Alliance, in the Falcon Hall, on Miller street.

Known as Mt. Michael's society, the date of the anniversary fell upon St. Michael's day. Present were officers and members of the organization from the district headquarters and from other groups.

Two Sessions

In the afternoon a program of addresses and special music were presented in Falcon Hall. In the evening a dinner was held in the hall, followed by a program of speaking and special music by the P. N. A. orchestra.

Waclaw Kubinski was the toastmaster of the evening and he introduced the following speakers. Commissioner Anna Patyk, of Pittsburgh, Commissioner Michael Holodnik, of Greenville, Director Joseph Wattras of Monessen, Rev. Fr. Bolek of Sharon, Attorney Walter Kielar, Zidmund Kubinski and Bart Richards. Brief remarks were made by representatives of groups of the Polish National Alliance from Farrell, Sharon, Ellwood City, Ambridge, Beaver Falls, and Monaca. During the evening Zigmund Kubinski was presented with a handsome ring bearing the emblem of the national organization. This was for long service to the P. N. A.

The organization is fraternal and in the years it has existed nationally has spent several million dollars in aiding young Poles to obtain an education. Here in New Castle there are five groups, the ceremonies Sunday night honoring Group 1237. The group president is Paul Suszczihski and the secretary Sophia Kubinski.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

Mrs. Mary DeMonico, West Pittsburg, who was injured when a coal stove exploded in her home, has recovered sufficiently to return home from the New Castle hospital.

Canadian Troops Introduce U. S. Games To British

(International News Service)

LONDON—Canadian troops are introducing American games to the British.

Softball matches have attracted wide attention, and units of the Royal Air Force are already trying the game. Commenting on the popularity of the new sport, the Evening Standard stated:

"It has the advantage over cricket that it can be played without a prepared pitch and the equipment is very cheap."

Captain Oscar L. Pearson, for many years director of physical education at the Toronto Y. M. C. A. has just been appointed games organizer for the Canadian division at Aldershot. Besides softball, Captain Pearson plans to organize baseball, ice-hockey, football, volley ball and boxing. He has had much experience having served as a Y. M. C. A. officer in France from 1915 to 1919.

'Math' Students Run Into Tough Exam Questions

(International News Service)

HANOVER, N. H.—Dartmouth students in higher mathematics find their exams tough—but far from dull.

Two questions, propounded by Professor Bancroft Brown, baffled and amused them. They were:

"In the game of shooting craps, the caster rolls two dice and wins if (a) the sum be 7 or 11, (b) if the sum be 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and if this same sum reappears before seven is ever seen. To obviate the odds against the caster, a dishonest caster employs two dice, one true and the other so loaded that a certain number always appears on the top. What should this number be in order to give him the maximum advantage?

The second question was given to test the future actuaries' knowledge of the calendar:

An ordinary monthly calendar for the leap year 1940 is hung in a western barroom. On an unspecified day of the week January 7-13 a cowboy enters the barroom, draws out his revolver, and shoots out the date, the bullet passing through all 12 sheets. What is the probability that the sum of the numbers punctured is odd?"

Send answers to Professor Brown, care Dartmouth college. You may be right, at that.

PAIN CURE?

According to the American Magazine, Dr. O. C. Osborn of Kalamazoo, Mich., has struck up a novel idea for quieting his young patients. He keeps a hive of bees in his office window to make the youngsters forget about their pains.

Students Protest Change In Name Of Pittsburgh School

South Hills High Students Stage Short-Lived Walkout Today

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30—What's in a name?

Students at South Hills high school answered that question today with a minor strike, and threats of a greater one.

By forceful action, they showed how they opposed a suggestion that the school be re-named the William Mehard Davidson high, in honor of the late superintendent of schools.

Before nine a. m., when the 2,600 pupils were due at their desks, groups of strikers stationed themselves at doorways and turned everybody away. Until Principal H. E. Winner arrived, a mass walkout seemed inevitable. His talk to the students brought all but about 20 or 30 into the building.

The others started parading in automobiles.

Winner, who has been associated with the school since its inception in 1917, agreed with the pupils in opposing the change of names. He showed them a letter which he had written to the secretary of the school board on his stand.

Soon after school took up, someone pulled a fire alarm and all the pupils marched to the exits. Most of them returned, however, when the bell was sounded again.

Winner told the students to protest through their student co-operative association.

Following a general assembly in the recreation hall, the group will subdivide for purposes of discussing various committee responsibilities for the year. In order to put into practice what the girls learn in the discussion, they will, in the same period, plan a program to be presented in the late afternoon. Thus, the publicity committee will make posters to advertise the meeting, the devotions committee will plan a worship service, the music committee will plan singing, and so on through all the committees.

Following this period, the girls will roam through camp grounds until lunch time. Each girl will take her own lunch, including hot dogs to be cooked by the open fire. It is expected that a craft period will follow lunch, after which leaders will take the girls on a long hike. Returning, Betty Reed, president of the Ne-Ca-Hi G. R. club for seniors, and conference chairman, will preside at the program planned in the morning. Marian Black, president of the Shenango club, will be conference registrar.

Caldwell will lead in group singing from 7:30 until 8:30 o'clock, after which ten of the committees will have their meetings. There will be short written reports from each committee concerning anything they would like to have other committees aid them with. The World Fellowship committee will be working on plans for an all association dinner in the Cathedral on November 14.

At 8:45 o'clock there will be a service of worship with Miss Rosa Brown, secretary of the Elm street branch, as leader.

CAT IS 'SEEING EYE' FOR BLIND 20-YEAR-OLD DOG

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa.—Making a strong bid for catdom's "hall of fame" is Tony the "seeing eye" for Peter, a blind 20-year-old dog.

For the past five years, Tony has been the ever watchful guardian of the aged dog, ever on the alert when his charge moves about in his world of darkness. When Peter blindly heads for a chair, the agile Tony darts to his side and gently guides him around it.

This odd pair lives in the home of the late Wellington Downing. Peter was taken in by Downing when he was a playful and active puppy, abandoned by his former masters, dirty, hungry and half frozen. In the years that followed they were inseparable companions.

Huge Exhibitions Of Prize Cattle Will Be Seen At Dairy Show

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Sept. 30.—Entries received for the 1940 national dairy show, at the state farm show buildings, October 12 to 19, today revealed that 930 prize cattle will be on exhibition and will come from 18 states and two provinces of Canada.

This huge herd, the largest array of dairy cattle ever assembled at one place in Pennsylvania, will comprise 265 Jerseys, 243 Holstein-Friesians, 219 Guernseys, 107 Brown-Swiss and 96 Ayrshires.

Officials of the National Dairy association, which is staging the exposition in cooperation with various state government department, explained however, that the count is subject to revision based on the official re-checking of entries by the five national record societies maintained to keep accurate account of the life history of the country's most valuable cattle of the breeds being shown here.

From the five-day analysis of entries, the competing owners and exhibitors, together with the general public, will receive absolute assurance that each bull, cow or calf at the show is exactly the animal described in the program lists of classes.

That additions to the present total may be expected was indicated a few days ago when a calf was born at the state farm show buildings to one of the championship cows arriving early for the exposition.

Additions to the actual number of entries may come from another source, from owners and breeders who belatedly decide to send cattle to the show—and who can convince the show officials that they have perfectly good reasons for not getting their entries in on or before the announced deadline.

The roll of the states to be represented in the cattle division of the show now extends from Rhode Island and Massachusetts to Iowa, Tennessee and Georgia. It includes Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Connecticut, Kentucky, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Delaware, Illinois, Ohio, New York, Maryland, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. To these, an international flavor is added by scores of entries from the two Canadian provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Present indications are that the distinction of sending the largest herd to Pennsylvania's first national dairy show is going to go to L. M. Hutchison, of the Shirley Ayr farm, Mt. Union, Pa., who is sending 34 Ayrshires. The McDonald farms, of Cortland, N. Y., seem destined to hold the runner-up position, with 29 Guernseys, while third place is likely to go to two farms specializing in Jerseys — Falklands farm of Schellsburg, Pa., and Twin Oaks farm, of Morristown, N. J.—from each of which 26 cattle have been entered.

JAPAN'S LABOR ORGANIZATION IS DISSOLVED

Its Central Executive committee, in extra-ordinary meeting, ended the organization in preparation for its members' participation in the national movement for industrial service to the state.

The dissolution of the federation, which was established in 1911, is another step of the Japanese people to assist the government and military to push the China incident to a successful conclusion.

Jewish New Year Wednesday Evening

Temple Israel To Have Special Services Wednesday Evening, Thursday Morning

On Wednesday evening, October 2, Jews throughout the world will welcome Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish religious new year. In the Jewish calendar, it falls on the eve of the first day of Tishri, the seventh month. It is observed for one day by reform Jews and for two days by orthodox and conservative Jewry. As a holy day concerned primarily with the life of the individual, Rosh Hashanah with its message of eternal values, will bring new courage to persecuted people and new strength to those called upon to aid their fellow-men.

The blowing of the shofar, a ram's horn, in the synagogue announces the new year and is a characteristic of the morning service. In the home, honey is served on the eve of the new year as a symbol of the wish for a sweet, happy and prosperous year. Considered a day of judgment and memorial, Rosh Hashanah inaugurates ten days of penitence, which are concluded on Yom Kippur, the day of atonement. Since Rosh Hashanah was traditionally the day on which the Lord judged each man and determined his future, greetings exchanged on the new year are often expressed in the wish, "may you be inscribed (in the book of life) for a good year."

Temple Israel has scheduled services for Wednesday evening, October 2, at 8 o'clock and Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. Rabbi Norman H. Diamond officiating at both services, will preach on "Victory In Defeat" and "Three Judgments".

Purple Martins Leave Early For South, Says Fox

On the outskirts of the city, live a number of folks, interested in bird life, have communicated with Owen Fox, in regard to the purple martin colonies on their places. They are much concerned with the sudden disappearance of these birds.

The purple martin differs greatly from many of our other birds, as they feed only on the small insects that fly about in the air. As these martins depend upon the insects for their sustenance, they leave this part of the country very early so they may arrive in their new feeding grounds in Brazil, to return about the following June.

This specie of martin is a little larger than the black martin, so common around the city, and seen flying up and down over our local rivers.

TONSILS AND ADENOIDS

We are approaching the "tonsil and adenoid season". The disease of these two seem to reach their peaks in the days when Autumn is giving way to Winter. So now is the time for preparedness measures against them. And if you start building up your child's resistance to colds—and your own resistance, also—you have gone a long way toward preventing tonsils and adenoid attacks. You won't have to worry about operations either.

Colds — adenoids — tonsils constitute a vicious circle, and if we could just eliminate the first phase of it, the others would be easily handled. When the child gets a bad cold, the adenoids become diseased and as a result they are enlarged. When they are enlarged the passages of the nose are blocked up, and the child breathes through the mouth. When he breathes through the mouth, he loses the use of the germ-removing equipment in his nose, and so is exposed more than ever to infection. Most common infection, is of course, the common cold, and these recurring colds make the adenoids more irritated, more diseased, and larger. So colds in the head become chronic.

Also mouth-breathing as caused by bad adenoids, changes the shape of the victim's mouth and jaws and has a bad effect on the shape of the teeth as they grow. In fact, if this vicious circle persists, about the only thing that will remedy the situation is an operation.

In almost every case, this diseased, adenoidal growth is accompanied by an even more dangerous health racketeer—the diseased tonsil. I think this arch-criminal has about as long and as impressive a record as any single health-destroyer ever arrayed against mankind. When the Quintplets' tonsils were removed two years ago, they ended about the only worries the children caused us. If you think they were a minor worry, you're all wrong, for somehow those tonsils became infected with septoecemia—septic sore throat and at one time we didn't know whether Emilie would survive it. Those tonsils kept me awake more nights that I care to think about now. So do you blame me, if I have an extra special hate on against tonsils

In the cases of the Quins, the bad tonsils had so undermined the health of the little girls that we had trouble getting them up to the physical state necessary for a successful operation. First their resistance had to be built up to a point where the germs that caused the diseased adenoids and tonsils could make as little headway as possible. Then they had to be conditioned for the operation.

Every day we gave them ample helpings of fruit or tomato juice, cod liver oil, plenty of sleep and fresh air. When they caught colds through contacts with outsiders, we doubled their rations of fruit juices, increased the rest periods, and saw to it that they had normal eliminations.

When something goes wrong with your child's tonsils and when his breathing shows that his adenoids are swollen and diseased, then for goodness sake, don't try home remedies, call your doctor in. He is the one who will know what to do, whether disease is so strongly entrenched in the organs that an operation is necessary or whether, by proper treatment, they can be preserved in a healthy state.

Tonsils aren't given us just to be removed. They have a purpose to serve as part of our physical structure. They aren't just growths in the throat as some people seem to think, they are lymphoid tissue that normally aids in fighting infection. It is only when they themselves get diseased that they cause us trouble.

Tomorrow: Adenoids and Tonsils.

Government Preparing Registration Instructions For Draft Board Members

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30—Each New Castle man of conscription age registering October 16 will spend about 20 minutes answering questions and signing his name on his registration card.

The registration men will not fill out any forms. This will be done by the registrars. A card will be assigned to each man registering. The registrar will ask the questions and will set down the registrant's answers in pen and ink. Instructions to registrars on "how to interview the registrant" have been issued by the Selective Service Committee as follows:

"The questions shall be asked in the order numbered on the card and each shall be entered in the proper space. If the registrant's first answer is not clear, the question will be explained carefully and asked again. The registrar shall be patient and take plenty of time. The registrar shall enter into no argument or discussions with the registrant. Proceedings shall not be rushed. The registration of each man should average about 20 minutes."

Each man registering will sign his card and affirm as correct the answers written in by the registrar.

The selective Service Committee estimates that one registrar working full time during the registration day can handle a maximum of 30 men. The size of the registering board says the Committee, should conform on this basis to the number of men in the precinct who are required to present themselves for and submit to registration.

The old time pride in craftsmanship that marked so many of the artisans of other days is not so apparent today. Occasionally one finds such an artisan and to watch him work and hear him tell of his work is always interesting.

Such a craftsman is working in the law library at the present time, George Angell of Cleveland, O., a book binder and a good one. A specialist if you please for specializes in nothing but law books.

For over forty years he has rebound only law books and has worked in the law libraries of every county seat of importance in the United States. He has been a book binder for well over half a century but his fingers are still nimble and his skill just as good as it ever was.

He developed into a law book specialist through a streak of hard luck. Sometime after he was married in 1888 he was laid off in the bindery in Memphis, Tenn., where he was employed and he went to Dallas, Texas. There he found he could not get work for some time but met a lawyer who wanted to get his books rebound. Mr. Angell discovered that by working for himself he could double his usual wages as a book binder and from that time since, he has been on his own.

He soon became known as the man to get to rebind law books and finally decided to confine himself to this end of book binding. He has his own special way of rebinding and when a book is done it is stronger than it was when he began the work.

He is proud of his craftsmanship and well he might be. Every book is a new adventure to him, every job something to be done to the limit of his ability. Whether it be a rare old law book from England or a volume of dry reports it is a challenge to his genius.

Mr. Angell is related to President Angell of Yale University and while he has resided in Cleveland for many years he still styles himself a "New England Yankee."

County Controller Frank W. Hill and Deputy Andrew Dodds are home from the state convention of the county controllers held at Beaver Falls. Mr. Hill was named state publicity director for the state organization. He served the year just closed as state secretary.

A small group faced Judges W. Walter Braham and Thomas W. Dickey Saturday morning when sentence court was held. Earl Moon, driving while intoxicated, was fined $100 and costs and thirty days in jail, to be released in five days upon payment of fine and costs.

Donald Kromer was fined $1 and costs on a morals charge and ordered to pay the lying-in costs and $10 per month for the maintenance of a minor child.

Charles Strickler, violation of parole, was given 60 days in the county jail.

Katherine McCall, adultery, was paroled for one year.

Elmo Clark, assault and battery, was given 30 days in the county jail dating from September 14.

Arthur Cassacchia, numbers, was fined $400 and costs and paroled for 2 years upon payment of the fine and costs.

All court house offices return to the fall and winter schedule of time October 1. The offices will open at 8:30 and close at 4:30 each business day.

Beaver Townships

The community party at Big Beaver Grange hall Friday evening was an enjoyable affair. The diversions of the evening were games and music. Delicious refreshments were served.

An enjoyable party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James McChesney Wednesday evening by the young men and young women's classes of the Wampum Methodist Bible school and their teachers in honor of two recently married couples. The grooms were both members of the young men's class. The two couples each received a nice electric table lamp as gifts from the classes. President Asks For Payment Of DeCarbo's Claim

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
(Special Washington Correspondent, New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 30—President Roosevelt has asked Congress to appropriate $50 for payment of a damage claim by Charles De Carbo, 1310 Wilmington avenue, New Castle.

The claim grows out of an automobile collision and has been approved by the Department of Agriculture. The crash occurred at Bentleyville, O., May 29, 1939. The driver of a truck owned by the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine attempted to make a left-hand turn off a main road into a private driveway without giving any hand signal, and a collision between the truck and Mr. De Carbo's car resulted.

The $50 with which to pay the claim will likely be appropriated in an omnibus claims bill.

Make Arrest In Woman Slaying Near Philadelphia

Drinking Party Crime, Is Claim

Police Say Suspect In Case Admits Beating Woman In Empty House

SUSPECT HELD IS EX-CONVICT

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—William J. Earnest, 35-year-old ex-convict, today was to be taken back to Montgomery county where, police said, he admitted beating to death Mrs. Ethel Craft Atkins, 38, in a fit of rage after a drinking party in an empty Horsham farm last Tuesday.

District Attorney Frederick B. Smillie, of Montgomery county, and his detectives were expected to claim Earnest, a short order cook, and Richard Brady, 24, an alleged accessory, at a hearing in city hall. The two will probably be held at Norristown to await grand jury action, detectives said.

Long Questioning

Arrest of Earnest and Brady by Philadelphia detectives culminated painstaking examination and questioning of men who had "dates" with Mrs. Atkins in "human chain" fashion during the three days before her death.

The victim, mother of three children of the Duke tobacco family by a former marriage, left the home of her present husband, James, a locomotive works employe, on Saturday, Sept. 21. The following Tuesday her beaten and slashed body was found in an untenanted Horsham farmhouse by its owner.

Mumbled admission by a mourner at Mrs. Atkins bier that he had been drinking with her put Philadelphia police on the trail. They questioned man after man until finally they swooped down on Earnest in the north Philadelphia "diner" where he had calmly dished out food since the slaying.

Police Report Admission

Police said Earnest admitted that he and Brady picked up the woman in a north Philadelphia club on Tuesday morning. Then the trio started a round of other clubs, ending up at the vacant house in Horsham, a township where Earnest had lived for several years.

While Brady sat in the automobile outside, the alleged confession ran, the purported slayer and his victim entered the house and retired to second floor room. A violent quarrel ensued during which he killed the woman in self defense, police quoted Earnest.

"She grabbed a curtain rod and tried to strike me with it, and I grabbed it from her and hit her over the head with it," Earnest assertedly confessed. "While we were tussling we tripped and the bottom of an iron bedstead fell over and struck her on the chest."

The victim's body was clad only in stockings and one white shoe when John C. Bready, owner of the house, discovered the crime. It had also been slashed repeatedly with a jagged instrument, police said.

The blond, goodlooking cook, who is married and the father of two children, then left Mrs. Atkins in the house, rejoined Brady and drove back to Philadelphia, according to the confession. Fellow employes at the luncheon wagon said he had acted "perfectly normal" in the days before his arrest.

Police records showed Earnest had a record of six arrests extending back to 1921, most recent of which was a three-month jail term in 1937 for a morals offense. He came to Philadelphia from Jersey City about 10 years ago.

Can Now Enlist In Army For One Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30—The army has let down the bars to voluntary one year enlistments until the first selective service recruits are forthcoming.

The War Department announced however, that men who enlist for one year will not be accepted for a particular arm or service, and because of technical requirements could not be assigned to the air corps, the armored forces and certain other technical branches, nor to posts outside continental United States.

The drive for three-year enlistments will continue to raise the regular army to its full authorized strength of 400,000 and maintain it at that figure regardless of the addition of one year recruits. The department said the army needed as many three-year enlistments as possible to provide "a continuing force of trained and seasoned men who can in turn instruct" the conscripts.

Open City Rescue Mission 30th Anniversary Thursday; Noted Evangelist Coming

Three decades of community service will be fittingly celebrated by the City Rescue Mission from Thursday, October 3, to October 12.

Day in and day out for 30 years the mission has been "everlastingly at it," and its doors have been open wide to all soul-sick and weary. Probably hundreds—and hundreds more—men in the nation can thank God that the late Robert McKinney and a small group foresaw the need of the organization and founded it. That was back in the Billy Sunday revival days of 1910.

The mission started on Croton avenue with the help of the New Castle Ministerial associaiton.

Mel Trotter, Grand Rapids (Michigan), City Rescus Mission superintendent, who died a week ago, was one of the founders who took time out to help raise funds to engage a superintendent, and through all these years the mission has come to be known as "the church down at work." It functions 365 days a year.

Men of all walks of life frequent the mission daily and find new hope and joy.

For its speager during the week, the mission has called on Dan McNally, a man who knows what a mission means to the hopeless and those down and out. He knows what it means to be kicked about, having spent some of his life behind prison bars. Not long ago, Bob Ripley, originator of "Believe It or Not" heard Dan, and asked him to give his life story on the "Believe It or Not" program. Ripley says McNally is one of the modern miracles.

Each night at 8 Dan will tell his experiences. Wherever he has held meetings, crowds had heard him, and he says only the grace of God could help a man like him back into society, where he is now loved and respcted by thousands.

The mission seats 350 people and chairs have been secured. The building will be open to the public.

There will be special music each night from the choirs of the various churches of the city. On Sunday, October 6, there will be three big meetings with special music, Superintendent Archie Gibson announces.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Honesty is the best policy when dealing with children.

Some parents tell the child a "white lie" or a half truth.

They think the child is too young to discriminate.

This may start a habit of fabrication that knows no end.

Promises, too, are made with no intention of keeping them.

Such practice may shatter the child's confidence in parents.

No promise should be made if not meant to be kept.

Threats of punishment are made but never carried out.

Children fed on delusions become confused and doubtful.

A child is given a toy then told to share it with another.

The child's sense of proprietorship is outraged.

Frankness and honesty with the child is the best policy.

Detroit Tigers Enter Series In Soaring Spirits

Finished Fifth Last Year, But Came Along To Reach Top, This Season

Comeback Of Schoolboy Rowe Has Helped Considerably, Have Power Hitters

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—A manager who dared to take chances, players who stood up for him, and all-around team-work and hustle made a fifth place Detroit club the 1940 pennant-winner in the American League and contender in the World Series against the Cincinnati Reds beginning next Wednesday.

Del Baker, a catcher by trade and a third base coach by inclination, became a manager by accident and led the surge which reached a climax Friday quite in keeping with everything that has gone before.

The Tigers started out this year with a catcher on first base, a first baseman in left field, with one great pitcher and one who might go lame, and with an infield that fairly groaned and creaked of old age. That same crew was in there for the pennant-clincher Friday against the Cleveland Indians—the same crew, that is, except one. He, of course, is and was Floyd Giebell, the 25-year-old Buffalo rookie right-hander, who beat blazing Bob Feller.

Power Hitters

Baker, who became manager when a beaning ended Mickey Cochrane's career in 1938, decided this season to utilize all the power available to pull the club out of the fifth place finish of 1939. The result of this decision was the switch of Hank Greenberg from first base. The result of the result, so to speak, was 41 home runs, 150 runs batted in and an average of .340 for Greenberg and 33 home runs, 131 runs batted in and an average of .318 for York. What's more, both fielded their positions.

While these two gents were setting out to wreck opposing pitching and distant fences simultaneously, Buck Newsom, an acquisition from the St. Louis Browns, and Schoolboy Rowe, a Tiger hero of other years, proceeded to have great seasons. Much was expected of Newsom and he came through with 21 wins and four defeats.

But Rowe's status was doubtful due to an uncertain arm. When his arm hadn't left its hinges as the Tigers came toward the stretch his case was stamped as a comeback and he made it official by winning 16 and losing only three.

Aging Infield

In the midst of all this, Second Baseman Charlie Gehringer, 37 years old; Shortstop Dick Bartell, 33, and Third Baseman Pinky Higgins, 31, all struggled along in the role of the oldest infield in the circuit, and kept up the fight despite ailments, which laid each of them low at one time or another. Only York of the inner works eluded the doctors.

Teamwork under prevailing circumstances might have been impaired or totally shattered but for Baker's hold on his men, his manner of dealing with them, and his willingness to take chances when it seemed advisable. The Tigers responded by making up with hustle whatever they lacked in technical niceties here and there, and they may go on to the world championship.

Great Outfield

They have a great young outfielder in Barney McCosky, whose batting average is .331, compared with Outfielder Greenberg's team- leading .340, and better than average pitchers in Tommy Bridges and Harold Newhouser, besides Newson and Rowe. Birdie Tebbetts and Billy Sullivan will handle the catching.

What they will be depending upon mostly against the Reds is the pitching of Newson and Rowe and the one-two punch of Greenberg and York—Good enough to win a pennant.

Rockets Tied; Nocera Scores

Slippery Rock Deadlocked By Shippensburg Saturday, 6-6

SLIPPERY ROCK, Sept. 30.—Slippery Rock's dream of an undefeated and untied grid season was marred on Saturday afternoon when Shippensburg held the tutors to a 6-6 draw, at Slippery Rock.

Shippensburg scored in the opening period when Andrukitis crashed through right tackle from the Rockets' 5. Grove had pushed the ball to that chalk stripe.

Slippery Rock hit the scoring column in the second. Aided by a pair of 15-yard penalties, the Rockets moved deep into Shippensburg territory. Temple rifled a short pass to "Fil" Nocera. The ex-New Castle High star gathered the soaring ball and went into pay dirt.

Dombroski, another ex-New Castle High ace, star for Slippery Rock.

The lineup:

Slippery Rock		Shippensburg

Ellwood Trips Indies Twice

Current Championship Baseball Series Is All Even At Two Apiece

Ellwood City, evened up the current championship series with the Lawrence Indies Saturday and Sunday, winning at Ellwood 5 to 4, and at the Cedar Street Field in New Castle, Sunday 10 to 4.

The series to date has drawn fine crowds. The game here Sunday at the Cedar Street field drew an estimated 1,500 to 2,000 attendance. Ellwood City won the Lawrence County league and the Indies were the City league champions.

No doubt the deciding game will draw a big crowd as both teams have a large following.

No announcement of the date of the fifth game has been made as yet. The Indies won the first two games of the series.

(No box-scores of the games were submitted to The News).

RAMBLERS WIN

New Castle Ramblers scored a 24-0 gridiron victory over the Bears Saturday morning on George Washington field. Kelch and Marchand paced the winners.

Adna Dobson, former Nebraska gridder, who is assisting Cornell Freshman Coach Mose McQuinn, is a student in engineering and holds a McMullen scholarship. He is one of the few undergraduate students ever to be singled out for this honor.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Washington is leading the eastern division and Green Bay the western division of the National Professional Football league. In the eastern division Brooklyn, New York and Pittsburgh are tied for second place with Philadelphia last. In the western division, Chicago Bears, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago Cards are tied for second place. In Sunday's game at Pittsburgh, the Steelers lost to Brooklyn Dodgers before more than 26,000 fans, 10 to 3.

Committeemen are working strenuously to make the coming field trials of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's association a success, October 12. They hope to have a crowd several times as large as last season. Some years ago it was estimated that 15,000 people, men, women and children interested in outdoor life, were at the affair. President George Sillman and his colleagues would appreciate a similar sized crowd one week from Saturday.

George Selkirk, New York Yankees' outfielder, is resting easy in a New York hospital following an operation for the removal of his appendix yesterday.

The Swedish newspaper "Aftonbladet," Stockholm, reported yesterday Max Schmeling suffered an injury while training German parachute troops. He is in a hospital and is being nursed by his wife, Anna Ondra, former German actress, the report added.

North Hills of Pittsburgh defeated Old Furnace in polo 7-6, at Zelienople, Sunday. . . . Don Budge won from Fred Perry for the national professional tennis championship at Chicago yesterday, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3.

Lexington, Ky.—Dave Zoeller, University of Kentucky senior halfback has a brother, Junie, who plays on the frosh team.

Afield And Astream

With
Lawrence County Sportsmens Association
By GEORGE SILLMAN

With the first frosts of the fall season, comes your outdoors scribe, to you, via these lines. It has been a long hibernation. Many a time has the moon passed into the far horizon. Many of our comrades have also passed into the happy hunting grounds. But the past is gone, and we live for the coming seasons.

The fishermen have had their days, which for some reason or rhyme was not the best experienced. The hunters, have their season ahead, which looks very promising. Reports from our game warden, which you have no doubt have already read, promise us one of the best bird seasons for some time. Rabbits are seen moving daily into the city, with the small game season just around the corner. Yours truly thinks that the Commission should open the season in the city's limits two days after the opening day. Not with guns of course but bow and arrows or the like. I hope the good warden don't see that last line, for he might take me over the coals for even suggesting such a move. Anyway, it is something to think about.

The general chairman of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Field Day has called a meeting for the chairmen and committees for all events Monday night at 8:00 p. m. at the Y. M. C. A. This years event promises to be among the largest held in the county. Hundreds of letters have been received from the neighboring county clubs, as to their promises of good will to support the local unit in the field meet to be held at the New Castle Fair grounds Saturday October 12th. One thing that the chairmen of the day have in mind, that should go over with the public, is the fact that all activities have been centered around the fair ground proper. Which will eliminate any unnecessary running around to find the respective trials.

Have you got your hunting license yet? Well what are you waiting for, the second day or conscription. If you expect to do any hunting, my advice is to get it now. The Commission does not give reduced prices on licenses issued a day or two before the opening day.

Going duck hunting? Don't forget you need a waterfoul stamp, which can be purchased at the Post Office. Any one caught without one, while having ducks or while attempting to hunt same, will be liable for federal punishment. The initial cost is only a dollar, and it is a good investment if you intend to pursue the feathered lightning.

Your writer has been approached numerous times as to a question and answer department in this column. Well, it might be a good idea. But we do not know the answers to hundreds of questions popped at yours truly every day. So, if we make mistakes, do not shoot at the first thing that moves, because it might not be your columnist. Let's hear from some of you other birds on this. If no replies are received, we will take it from that, that you are not interested. If you have any comment, drop a line in care of this paper and we will try to do our best. Thanks.

Monday wash: As forecasters, our little reading circle just isn't. Before the start of the baseball season we asked a flock of fans to venture a guess on the outcome of the major league races. We planned to present the fortunate pickers with a pair of World Series ducats. In checking over the list today, we discovered, much to our sorrow, that no one hit the bull's eye. . . .

A few of the guessers, however, did come close, which doesn't even count in horseshoes anymore. William Semler went over board for Cincinnati but was submarined in the A. L. Marion Kolojeski nominated Cincinnati. He, too, was grounded in the junior loop. Dr. Charles Lumley named Cincinnati but miscued in the American loop. P. S. We ran true to form again, missing the winners in both loops.

Three Lawrence Countians started in the West Virginia Wesleyan-Salem game last week. "Socks" Roussos, the towering former "Hurricane" tackle, was stationed at left end for Wesleyan. Pishioneri, center, and Flanagan, end, both ex-Ellwood City High aces, flaunted Salem's colors. The trio played impressively.

Jim McNeill, another ex-New Castle High grid star, is in charge of Muskingum College's varsity right halfback post. . . . Clyde Uber, candidate for an end berth at Thiel, figures to see plenty of action this season. The East Sider weighs 160 pounds. . . .

Alliance College's grid roster includes the name of Eddie Noga, former New Castle High basketball-football player. The south sider has copped a backfield berth and looms as one of the keymen. . . . Howard Currie, ex-Shenango product performing for Geneva College, is developing into a standout lineman. Valley critics predict that the East New Castle athlete will be one of the most talented gridders in the district before closing his athletic career. . . .

Financial note: Because of lack of room, the Cincinnati Reds have been forced to turn back more than $200,000 World Series ticket money. . . . "Hank" Greenberg got fat on Bob Feller pitching during the past season. Exclusive of Friday's game, the Detroit batting demon boasted of a .471 average against the boy marvel. . . .

Before the next baseball season rolls around, the Cleveland Indian mixunp will probably be exposed. It would make a good yarn. . . . Maxie Baer's manager reportedly won a fat chunk, something like 10's, that the Madcap would make Irish stew out of Pat Comiskey. . . . Johnny Babich has beat the New York Yankees five times during the past season which is par or something like that. . . .

The championship Rads won 56 games this year and lost but eight. The Rads played headsup ball all the way and deserved to win. Homers were hit by Greg Ross and Dado. Green Is Again Golf Champion

Green 1939 Champ Defeats Sterling McKee At Field Club 1 Up In 36 Holes

Herman Green, the 1939 golf champion at the New Castle Field club, repeated Sunday by defeating Sterling "Stinger" McKee 1 up in a sensational 36 hole match. A fair sized gallery followed the two finalists.

Green held a five up lead the first 18, and at the end of the 27th Green still was five up. McKee turned on the heat the last nine holes to make an exciting match of it. Green was cool and calm the entire time and failed to get ruffled when McKee came breezing in on the second nine to almost catch him.

Shoot Fine Golf

Green had a 73-80-153 for the 36 holes and McKee had a 78-76-154 for the match. Both men are fine golfers and both had to wade through tough opposition to reach the finals.

Young Bill Watkins won the first flight championship over Charles Matthews, Jr., 4 and 3. In the second flight Jimmy Deegan defeated C. M. England in semi-finals 5 and 4. Deegan and Hugh Graham are playing the finals and Deegan has a 1-up lead at the end of the first 18 holes.

PIGSKIN PARADE BEGINS SATURDAY

America's gaudy football parade took its place in the center of the sports world Saturday.

Most of the bigwigs drew the curtain auspiciously. Before nightfall blanketed the vast stadiums throughout the land, a few of the Goliaths went tumbling down like a crumbling brick building.

Pitt Sinks, 30-7

It was a sad day in Columbus, Ohio, as 52,000 persons witnessed Pittsburgh's departure from the ranks of the bigwigs to the second division bracket. Ohio State flattened the erstwhile powerful Panthers, 30-7. Don Scotts passing wizardry befuddled Pitt. That Pitt is deemphasizing, footballically, was convincingly proved.

Carnegie Tech didn't display too much in dropping Geneva College, 21-0. Dr. Baker's force was far from impressive. With the shock troops doing most of the damage, Bill Kern's West Virginia Mountaineers romp over Westminster, 47-0. Kern, starting his regime as pilot of the hilltoppers, gave the fans a "look" at his first team and then rushed his reserves.

Washington & Jefferson passed its way to a 13-0 victory over Mount Union. Ohio University's Bobcats were extended to drop Youngstown College, 13-0. Slippery Rock, among the few undefeated and untied elevens in the land last season, was held to a 6-6 draw by Shippensburg. Grove City went down 13-0 before Clarion, while Thiel thumped Alliance, 25-0.

Harmon Stars

A 195 pounder from Gary, Indiana, Tom Harmon, put on the flashiest show of the day as he led Michigan to a 41-0 rout of California in one of the intersectional affairs of the day. Harmon celebrated his 21st birthday by dashing 94, 72 and 86 yards for touchdowns. At one instance, a spectator climbed out of his seat and darted onto the field. Harmon eluded him in addition to the coast eleven and whizzed into pay dirt. The Bears were helpless.

A broad smile from Lady Luck, alertness and speed gave Minnesota a 19-14 triumph over Washington's Huskies. The lead see-sawed four times. Then, George Franck ran 99 yards for the Gophers' winning tally. In the dying moments, Washington reached Minnesota's five and then fumbled.

Boston College fooled the weisenheimers by annihilating Tulane, 27-7. Charley O'Rourke's passing and running featured Boston's surprise win. The Wave was slowed down to a mere ripple. Paul Christman's pitching led Missouri to a 40-26 victory over a surprisingly powerful St. Louis U. band.

Trojans Tied

Southern California's hopes of appearing in the Rose Bowl again received a terrific jolt. The Trojans were held to a 14-14 tie by a weak Washington State outfit. Southern California, however, should have won by three touchdowns with any kind of a break. One touchdown was nullified by an off side penalty and a couple of fumbles ruined two other scores.

The David and Goliath act was re-enacted at Chapel Hill, N. C., where Wake Forest's mighty Deacons disgraced North Carolina, 12-0. This, of course, was the biggest upset of the day. This was Wake Forest's first victory over the Tar-Heels since 1927. Minus the capable Jack Crain, who hurt his back in the second, Texas crushed Colorado, 37-6. Tulsa was too much for Washburn, the score ending in a 37-6 rout.

Texas A. & M. waltzed against Texas A. & L., 26-0. The same was true of Holy Cross over Providence, 34-6, and Dartmouth over St. Lawrence, 35-0. Texas Christian displayed that its on the upgrade again, turning back Centenary, 41-6. Duke had everything the doctor prescribed in ripping V. M. I., 23-0.

Navy Wins

Navy's Middies cut loose with a last period spurt to convert apparent defeat into a 19-7 victory over William and Mary. The Indians led until the final stanza, 7-6. Purdue's Boilmakers uncorked a dazzling passing and running attack to kayo Butler, 28-0. Manhattan, stopped in the opening chapter, got rolling and trampled St. Bonaventure, 45-0.

Clark Shaughnessy, ex-pilot of Chisabo's extinct eleven, was on the winning side for a change as his Stanford Indians tumbled San Francisco, 27-0. Colgate shadow boxed against Akron, piling up a 44-0 edge. N. Y. U. ran up a 32-0 count over Penn Military and called it a day. Virginia U. pinned back Lehigh, 32-0. Clemson bagged its second win, tripping Wofford, 26-0.

Vanderbilt drubbed stubborn William and Lee outfit, 19-0. Tennessee 49, Mercer 0. Nuf said! Georgetown won by the track meet score of 66-0 over Roanoke. Marshall dumped V. P. I. 13-7. North Carolina was too much for Davidson, 34-0. Mississippi served notice of its strength by bowling over Louisiana State 19-6, and Mississippi State won with ease over Florida, 25-7.

Santa Clara's Broncos walloped Utah, 34-13 while Wyoming surprised New Mexico, 7-0. Arkansas marched along in a cake walk, 38-0, the Edmond Teachers furnishing the resistance. Oregon State showed that it is loaded for bear by copping an easy 41-0 verdict over Idaho.

It was a perfect opening. The day was ideal, the crowds were large and so were the results—for all the bigwigs save North Carolina and Southern California.

Packers Win In Opening Battle

The Pump Station Packers football team opened the 1940 sandlot season here Sunday by defeating the North Hill Red Skins at Wash high field 12 to 7. Scoring for the McCarty coached grid machine was "Hank" Westlake from the seven-yard line in the second period and duplicated his act in the third period.

Jamison scored for the North Hillers after taking a long pass from Pete Byers. The same two teams are playing a return game next Sunday at Washington high and the Packers, according to Coach Jack McCarty, expect to repeat their victory.

Baseball Year Comes To Close

Detroit And Cincinnati Will Play In World Series, Indians Finish Second

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Baseball's 102nd season was officially at an end today but the 1940 Cleveland Indians will keep the hot stove league kindled with talk for many months to come.

Not in the long and stormy history of baseball can it be recalled when a team was loaded with so many prima donnas as this season's crop of Clevelanders. In addition, the Indians made national history by becoming the first club to threaten a strike and the first team to sign a petition in an attempt to oust the manager, old Oz Vitt.

Despite all their shortcomings, the Indians played good enough ball to end up with second-place money in the American league. They did so by beating the Tigers yesterday, 4 to 3, in 14 innings. The victory assured them of the runner-up post and left them only one game behind Detroit.

Yanks Win Final

The New York Yankees, failing for their first time in five years to win the pennant and also the championship, ended their campaign in Washington, beating the Senators 3 to 2 in 11 innings. This was the first time during Manager Joe McCarthy's 10-year tenure that the Yanks have finished lower than second place.

Also yesterday's game was probably the last time that many of the Yankees, who helped Mac compile such enviable records will be playing under him. Earlier, Ed Barrow, president of the Yanks, was reported as saying that no matter how the season ended a good shakeup was in the making.

The Boston Red Sox put on a final spurt and took a double-header from the Philadelphia Athletics, winning the opener 9 to 4 and the nightcap which was halted in the eighth because of darkness, 4 to 1. The double victory placed them in a tie with the Chicago White Sox, who lost to the St. Louis Browns 2 to 1, for fourth place and also a cut of the series' melon.

Reds Win 100

The National league, its positions clinched days ago, bowed out quietly. Cincinnati's two-time champion Reds became the first senior circuit team since the 1935 Chicago Cubs to win 100 victories. Bucky Walters, who worked only the first three innings, won his 22nd victory as the Reds walloped the Pittsburgh Pirates 11 to 3.

Bill Lohrman snapped a ten-game losing streak by throwing a three-hitter as the New York Giants whitewashed the Boston Bees, 14 to 0. The Brooklyn Dodgers ended one of their most successful seasons by trimming the last-place Phillies, 5 to 0, and the St. Louis Cardinals shut out the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 0, with Dizzy Dean being charged with the loss.

Tiger Fans Give Champions Welcome

Over 100,000 Stage Wild Demonstration As Conquering Tigers Reach Home

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Sept. 30—Given an uproarious welcome when they returned home from Cleveland, after winning the American League pennant, the Detroit Tigers today were to entrain for Cincinnati and Wednesday's opening world series encounter against the Cincinati Reds.

More than 100,000 wild eyed fans, who often threatened to get out of control, greeted the Tigers last night when they arrived from the Ohio city after one of the most heated pennant grinds in years.

So great was the crowd at the rail road station, in fact, that it was necessary to hustle the players into a police patrol wagon in order to insure their safe transfer down town where another throng awaited to offer congratulations.

It was a celebration unsurpassed in the motor city since the town went baseball mad in 1934 and 1935, the last time the Tigers took the flag.

After the players finally got downtown, there was an informal reception and each of the Tigers was introduced from a hastily improvised platfrom. The din was terrific both from automobile horns and cheers that surpassed anything ever heard in a baseball park.

Twenty eight strong, the Tigers were to leave for Cincinnati at 3:10 p. m. and arrive in the Ohio river city at 9:10 p. m.

Pirates Extend Frisch's Contract For Two More Years

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—Pirates Manager Frankie Frisch today had another year added to his contract by President William Benswanger in appreciation for lifting the local club from sixth to fourth place in the National league standings.

Frisch's original contract called for a two-year term, 1940 and 1941. It now runs through 1942, club officials announced today prior to President Benswanger's departure for Cincinnati to attend the draft meeting and the world series.

Frisch won a pennant and a world series in his first full season as a manager at St. Louis in 1934. He finished second with the Cardinals in 1935, tied for second in 1936, was fourth in 1937 and sixth in 1938 before leaving the diamond for a year.

Earlier, the Pirates announced the outright release to the Atlanta, Ga., club of the Southern Association of Lemuel Floyd "Pep" Young, veteran infielder. This step was taken to complete the deal for Shortstop Alf Anderson, who was purchased by the Bucs in August for a sum of money and a player to be agreed upon later.

All 15 major league clubs waived on Young several weeks ago, it was revealed. This year Young hit .244 and averaged .912 in his fielding.

After Bombs Shook Buckingham

C. P. Cablephoto

A delayed action bomb which dropped squarely on the main sentry box outside the gates of Buckingham Palace, London home of the rulers of the British Empire, tore this huge crater in the earth. Five other bombs exploded on the palace itself, but the monarchs escaped injury. Photo was flashed by cable to New York.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESKILL

That was a nice fall day yesterday . . . the leaves were falling gently to the ground and old sol was shining for all he was worth. Just enough bite in the air to make it a little interesting . . . Some folks say they would like to see the winter have no more severe weather than yesterday . . . maybe they are right after recalling the weather we had last winter . . . it is predicted by some well known local weather profits that this winter will be mild . . . there's only one thing we can do . . . and that is wait and see.

* * *

Most every one who reads this will be an American citizen . . . but not every one is a good American citizen until they exercise their right to vote . . . if you are not registered to vote you had better get busy and do so this week . . . you have until the 5th of October . . . and that my friends is next Saturday. Let's not sit back and let "George" do it, we must all take the burden on our shoulders and help this country through the most trying times it has ever had . . . we must keep this country in the peoples hands and to do this we must, every one of us . . . vote.

Some people sure have faith . . . some in human nature and others have faith in a rattle trap of a car. Two young couples (high school age) were out riding last night in their pride and joy when all at once it stopped . . . after pushing and fixing spark plugs and the like it finally sputtered and coughed . . . when running, it sounded like a horse with a bad case of heaves . . . one of the boys stated "no matter what happens, this car just has to get us to Sharon next Friday" . . . well we hope they make it . . . and we can almost see what the owners of this car will be doing every night this week . . . car trouble just can't happen when your taking your date to a football game.

When the band plays the New Castle High School Alma Mater everyone, regardeiss if they attended the school or not, stand at attention and sing or hum the song. We find that there is one city official that doesn't evidently believe that he should stand at this time . . . we won't mention names at this time . . . but we hope that he pays our High School the honor due it during the rest of the games this season.

Tonight opens the indoor recreation centers of this city. You are invited to visit these centers at any time.

Stock Market Extends Rally

Market Trading Has Upward Trend After Hesitant Start

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The stock market today extended Saturday's modest rally after some hesitancy at the start. Strength in preferred issues, several of which gained 2 or more points, again was a feature. Leaders generally were up fractions, although a few advanced a point.

Trading was at a moderate pace. Sales in the first hour totaled 100,000 shares vs. 80,000 Saturday and 180,000 last Friday.

The preferred issues were paced by Budd Manufacturing, General Steel Castings and American Woolen, each gaining at least 2 points.

Chemicals and aviations were prominent on the upside. Air Reduction, Union Carbide, Douglas, Glenn L. Martin and American Air Lines each climbed more than a point.

Elsewhere improvement was fractional, including the gains in U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, Anaconda, Kennecott, International Nickel, N. Y. Central, Union Pacific, Pullman, American Car & Foundry, U. S. Rubber and Woolworth.

A few scattered issues lagged from the opening. Included were Standard Oil of N. J., Texas Corp., American Tobacco "B," Phelps-Dodge, American Telephone and Public Service of N. J. Bethlehem Steel held around Saturday's closing level.

Irregularities In Circulating Communist Election Petitions Charged

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 30.—Following the lead set by other Western Pennsylvania counties, Pittsburgh today was scheduled to begin its own court trial of 43 persons accused of irregularities in the circulation of Communist nominating petitions.

It was estimated that 1,200 prosecution witnesses have been summoned for the trial. Judge Thomas M. Marshall and Joseph A. Richardson Saturday denied a defense motion to quash the 105 indictments returned against the defendants last July.

Before the trial gets under way, however, the judges must decide on another motion seeking separate trials for the defendants.

Defense Attorney Cyrus A. Davis declared in his petition that a mass trial would be prejudical to the defendants. Assistant District Attorney F. P. Langfitt claimed that there should only be one trial as "an alleged conspiracy cannot be divided."
